

A HURRICANE IN THE MIDDLE OF SUMMER?!

A hurricane only becomes desirable when everyone begins to detest the sun's rays for causing the scorching weather. Hurricane Harbor takes advantage of this rare occurrence by naming their waterpark after it. The waterpark consists of swirling waterslides, turbulent wave pools, and a relaxing lazy river, serving as the location for our final field trip of the summer.

After the brief walk in the sun from the bus to the waterpark, everyone was ready to get into the water. Some groups started with the wave pool in order to get acclimated to the temperature of the water, which didn't prove difficult due to the sweltering climate. Campers dove under waves, floated atop them, and swam up and down the faux shoreline. Other groups began with an exploration of the water play area. They ran under buckets of water being rhythmically emptied, stumbled through obstacle courses beneath rows of showerheads, and raced down mini waterslides with friends. Once each camper had been thoroughly drenched, they moved on to a variety of activities, including tubing down daunting waterslides and playing tag in the lazy river.

The campers had a blast exploring the waterpark and staying cool in spite of the hot weather. The field trip was simultaneously a sunny, relaxing day at the beach and an exhilarating, hurricane-esque experience on the waterslides!
