

SNOW MUCH SCIENCE WITH THE OWL CLASS!

Our Owls class turned into little scientists as they experimented with creating “snow” in a snow globe! Before dropping in the Alka-Seltzer, they used critical thinking skills to predict what might happen—Would it fizz? Would the snow swirl? As they tested their ideas and watched the bubbling reaction, they learned that asking questions, making predictions, and observing results are all part of real scientific thinking—hands-on, exciting, and a little bit magical.
