

FALL NATURE SCAVENGER HUNT: DISCOVERING GOD'S BEAUTIFUL CREATION

Our Owl Class had a wonderful time exploring the beauty of fall during a special outdoor scavenger hunt! With small baskets in hand, the children became “fall detectives,” searching for God’s treasures—colorful leaves, crunchy sticks, bumpy pinecones, and more. Each discovery sparked excitement and wonder as they noticed the changing colors and textures that remind us of God’s creativity all around us.

Through this Guided Experience, students practiced curiosity and observation while learning that exploring nature can also be an act of gratitude. They looked high and low, listened to the rustle of leaves, and shared joyful exclamations like, “I found a red one!” or “Mine feels prickly!” As they collected their treasures, they also learned to appreciate the small details that make God’s world so amazing.

After the walk, the class gathered to reflect on their favorite finds. Each child proudly shared what they discovered—comparing colors, describing textures, and celebrating one another’s discoveries. Back in the classroom, they used their nature treasures to create fall-inspired art, bringing their outdoor learning to life.

This activity was also a beautiful example of Working Together as students paired up to help one another find items and sort them into groups. They encouraged their friends, shared baskets, and learned that teamwork makes exploring even more fun. The scavenger hunt not only deepened their appreciation for God’s creation but also nurtured kindness, cooperation, and gratitude in every little explorer.
